EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS OCTOBER 1 OR 15

SENATOR SMOOT, FINANCE COMMITTEE HEAD, SO STATES

UTAH SOLON TELLS RESULTS OF HIS VISIT AT THE WHITE HOUSE

NECESSITY FOR ACTION ON DEFICIENCY APPROPRIATIONS, FLOOD RELIEF, ETC.

Washington, June 8. — (UP) — President Coolidge will call an extra session of congress Oct. 1 or 15, Sen. Smoot, chairman of the senate finance committee, announced today after a visit at the White House.

The necessity for action upon deficiency apropriations bills, tax reduction, election contests, and Mississippi floods rehabilitation legislation and farm relief has caused the decision, Smoot said.

The first business before the special session will be the deficiency appropriations bill, killed in a filibuster at the closing moments of the last session. This prevented the government from receiving $40,000,000 of necessary appropriation funds.

The election contests of Senator-elect Vare, republican, Pennsylvania, and Senator-elect Smith, republican, Illinois, also will have to be disposed of, and are expected to lead to considerable debate.

Smoot said his finance committee would meet in joint session with the house ways and means committee in September to frame a new tax reduction bill for presentation to the house as soon as the special session meets.

Smoot said he believed the bill would carry $300,000,000 reduction.

The call for the special session will not be sent out by President Coolidge for some time yet. Under the law, the president can wait until three weeks before the time of convening to issue his call. The regular session would open normally in December.

Smoot's announcement confirmed a United Press dispatch of several weeks ago stating that republican leaders and Mr. Coolidge had decided on a special session.

"If she doesn't weigh more than 140 pounds and has had flying experience, I'll take her to Hong Kong in safety," said Porter.

MEMPHIS HAS COVERED HALF OF ITS VOYAGE

NOW SKIRTING GULF STREAM IN THE FAIREST OF WEATHER

LINDBERGH RUNS GAUNTLET OF ALL PHOTOGRAPHERS ON SHIP

By CHARLES M. McCANN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Aboard the U. S. Cruiser Memphis Enroute to Washington, June 8. — Skirting the Gulf stream in the fairest of weather after days of wind, rain and fog, the light cruiser Memphis was well on the last half of its voyage across the Atlantic today with Captain Charles A. Lindbergh as its idolized guest.

The sudden change in weather had a buoyant effect on all aboard the vessel—especially the photographers, who put Lindbergh through one of the hardest workouts he has undergone since he became famous. They perched him on the ship's guns, on and in the cruiser's seaplanes, and on the bridge and decks.

All through the ordeal the American airman acted as naturally and gracefully as when he faced the crowds and royalty in Europe.

The half way mark between Cherbourg and Washington was crossed yesterday at 3:30 P. M., ship's time. At that time the Memphis had covered 1,675 miles at an average speed of 22 knots. Unless the unforseen happens, the vessel will reach the Virginia Capes Friday night, in plenty of time to arrive at the capital by noon Saturday, as scheduled.

When the sun came out after what had seemed a permanent total eclipse, Lindbergh strolled the decks and looked longingly toward the seaplanes carried by the Memphis. He hoped that he could launch one of them from its catapult but discovered that his own crated plane was lashed on the deck between the catapults. That prevented the catapult from being set at a proper angle and the idea of flying from a plane in mid-ocean was abandoned, at least temporarily.

After satisfying the cameramen with poses with the ship's mascot, a wallaby or small kangaroo, and with the Spirit of St. Louis cake given him by the officers, Lindbergh resumed his inspection of every part of the cruiser. With Lieut. Commander Jay K. Esler, ship's gunnery officer, as guide, the flier was taken through a tour of the magazines.

Later he witnessed a gun drill conducted by Lieut. Commander Harry St. J. Butler and thoroughly examined the two compact little seaplanes carried by the cruiser perched on catapults.

The fair weather permitted the taking of frequent observations to determine the vessel's position after days of navigation by dead reckoning.

Lindbergh already has begun making preparations for disembarking. News of the reception being planned for him is being received by the cruiser and the aviator seemed especially interested in a message from Washington saying six destroyers would meet the Memphis off the Capes and accompany it until dark on Friday.

High Court Says State Senator Lennon Must Serve Year in Jail for Breaking Liquor Law

HOW KING BEN TRIED TO PROVE SUPER-MAN

DETAILS ALLEGED IN TESTIMONY OF FORMER CULT MEMBER

WHEN SHE WAS RECEIVED IN COLONY BAND PLAYED HARMONIOUSLY

St. Joseph, Mich., June 8.—(UP)—Details of how King Ben Purnell attempted to prove he was supernatural probably will be continued today at the dissolution hearing of the House of David cult through the testimony of Mrs. Hanzel Wuerth, former member.

Mrs. Wuerth yesterday told of how King Ben disappeared in a fashion which momentarily seemed supernatural.

"Once Purnell came into my room and had been there only a few minutes when Queen Mary (his wife) entered," she said.

"Benjamin hid behind a screen and I told Queen Mary he was not in the room. I was correct. He had disappeared. I thought he was like Jesus and had flown through the walls. This strengthened my belief in him.

"Later, of course, I found out there was a concealed door close by," she added.

Mrs. Wuerth said she went to the colony in 1907 and that when she was received a band was playing and King Ben appeared in flowing white robes.

"I thought I was entering the gates of paradise," she said.

Mrs. Wuerth testified that Purnell had mistreated her through teaching that "purification" rites were necessary.

St. Joseph, Mich., June 8.—Two young girls, members of the House of David, died from poison at the isolated High Island lumber camp of the cult after they had been subjected to "King Ben" Purnell's "purification rites," Mrs. Hazel Wuerth testified here today.

Mrs. Wuerth was a witness in the state's suit to disband the House of David colony. She said Eliza Murphy, 14, died after drinking spirits of camphor and Jesse Wheeler succumbed after eating poisonous mushrooms.

Dr. Walter Sullivan to Ask for Separate Trial, Felony Charge

Los Angeles, June 8.—(UP)—Dr. Walter Sullivan, Hollywood physician, charged jointly with Dorothy Mackaye on two felony counts growing out of the death of the actress' husband, Ray Raymond, will ask for a separate trial when the case is called June 16, his attorney said today.

"Evidence which necessarily must be presented against Miss Mackaye will be prejudicial to Dr. Sullivan since he was brought into the case only two days before the death of Raymond," Attorney Thomas who said "we shall ask that the defendants be tried separately."

Dr. Sullivan and Miss Mackaye are charged with attempting to conceal the facts of Raymond's death for which Paul Kelly, screen juvenile, recently was sentenced to serve from one to ten years in San Quentin.

GAME OF STRIP POKER ISSUE IN KANSAS

Horton, Kan., June 7.—(UP)—The question of what constitutes a game of strip poker remains unanswered in Kansas. Two teachers in the third ward school here were requested to hand in their contracts for next year, after the school board heard they had played a game of strip poker with local business men.

Upon refusal of the teachers to resign, the state attorney general was requested to state whether strip poker constituted a game of chance. Search through the statutes failed to reveal a definition of strip poker.

The two teachers have hired a lawyer, made affidavits that they were not playing strip poker but the simple game of pitch, and say they intend to stand pat.

The board says that regardless of the truth of the rumor, the teachers' usefulness has been impaired. The teachers take the attitude that turning in their contracts, as requested, would be a confession of guilt.

So the board continues to demand their resignations and the teachers continue to refuse to quit.

And the attorney general of Kansas is poring through great tomes of law books trying to find out just what a strip poker is, anyhow.

WAS OFFICER OF EAGLES IN MINNEAPOLIS

AMONG SEVEN OFFICERS INDICTED WITH NINE BARTENDERS

ALL CHARGED WITH MAINTAINING A LIQUOR NUISANCE

St. Paul, June 8—(UP)—The federal circuit court of appeals today ruled that State Sen. A. L. Lennon of Minneapolis must serve one year in jail for liquor law violations.

Sen. Lennon, who was a member of the state legislature for several sessions, was among seven officers of the Eagles lodge in Minneapolis who were indicted with nine bartenders for maintaining a liquor nuisance.

Seven of those indicted were sentenced in United States district court to serve eight months each in jail.

The state senator appealed his sentence of one year and during the last session of the legislature a resolution to unseat him was not taken up.

The Eagles clubhouse in Minneapolis was raided by federal prohibition agents May 3, 1925.

The decision of the court of appeals stated that Sen. Lennon was one of three trustees of the lodge who had general supervision of the lodge property, including a large new building.

"The barroom was operated in a conspicuous manner in the building and the building fund of the lodge was deriving a very substantial revenue from that source," the decision said.

"The defendant at the lodge meeting on March 2, 1925, made a motion that during afternoon of Sundays and holidays the front door of the building be kept open. Witnesses agreed that he spoke in support of the written motion.

"The defendant was shown to have been present in the barroom on numerous occastons when liquor was being sold and consumed and made no remonstrance."

TROUT FISHING, GOLD PANNING, FOR PRESIDENT

COMMON TREAT IN THE BLACK HILLS, S. D., COUNTRY

EQUIPMENT FOR GOLD PANNING IS LIGHT PROPOSITION

Rapid City, S. D., June 8.—(UP)—Various forms of diversion are offered in the Black Hills and should President Coolidge become bored with trout fishing he can have a diversion that only the west offers—gold panning.

This is a common treat in this country and it is not an uncommon pastime of the vacationists.

Recently C. F. Hatmaker, assistant general manager of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, and Fred Martineck, personnel officer of the same company, became devotees of the sport. They used a sluice box and out of two wheelbarrows of ore taken from the Halley mining claim, panned about three dollars worth of gold.

Both expressed the opinion it was one of the "greatest thrills."

Equipment for gold panning is light. All the president would need would be an old frying pan and a pick. Of course there is the more modern method of a sluice box and both are quite commonly used.

Many guides have offered their services to show the president the choicest places for gold panning.

CHAMBERLIN IN STATEMENT TO UNITED PRESS

SAYS AMERICAN ORGANIZATION HAS OFFERED THEM $100,000

MAY LEAVE BERLIN SHORTLY AND FLY TO VIENNA, ROME, ETC.

By FREDERICK KUH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1927, by United Press)

Berlin, June 8. — Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine may fly back to the United States, Chamberlin told the United Press today in an interview.

"An American organization has offered us $100,000 if we fly back to Roosevelt Field," the flier said. "The offer is so attractive that we are again considering the possibility of returning home by airplane."

Chamberlin discussed his future plans in Europe and told of offers he had received.

"I believe it is quite likely we shall leave Berlin in five or six days and fly to Vienna," he continued. "We have accepted an official invitation from the Austrian government to visit them by air at their capital.

"We are also planning to fly to Rome, Paris, London and are considering a flight to Moscow, possibly pausing at Poland on the way."

Chamberlin said he was not yet certain about Moscow and Poland.

He spoke of his mother and the talk he had with her over radiotelephone immediately after arriving at Berlin yesterday. "I have suggested to my mother that she sail immediately for England and meet me at London, which is her native city," he said.

"Among the hundreds of offers we have received one is to appear at a circus at home. There are many offers to go into the movies, vaudeville, on the stage, on the lecturing platform, and others."

Chamberlin said he was going to be received by President Von Hindenburg and that he would have to go wearing the knickerbockers and leather sporting jacket which he wore on the flight over.

"You see I took absolutely no luggage with me," he added— "no clothes, not even a clothes brush or a razor."

The flier said well meaning people had loaded charms and fetishes on him as tokens of good luck. "I am not superstitious," Chamberlin assured the correspondent. "I took them along merely to please the donors."

The United States lines today offered Chamberlin and Levine free passage to New York, but the pair said they still were considering the advisibility of flying back to New York, possibly from London. It was expected that the Soviet government would invite Chamberlin and Levine to fly to Moscow, assuring them a great reception.

FLIERS RECEIVED BY VON HINDENBURG

By ERIC KEYSER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, June 8. — Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine began filling the first of a series of engagements today in which the people of Germany sought to express their admiration for their record breaking airplane flight from New York.

The fliers were received at the presidential palace by President Von Hindenburg. About 10 years ago Chamberlin, then an inexperienced youth, was joining the United States army corps hoping to soar above the armies led by Von Hindenburg. All such was forgotten today. Chamberlin and Levine were welcomed as emissaries of peace whose flight would add to the friendship already existing between Germany and the United States.

The aged soldier-statesman received the fliers at 11:30 A. M. From Von Hindenburg's home in Wilmelmstrasse, Chamberlin and Levine were to go to further honor and acclaim.

Hindenburg congratulated Chamberlin and Levine, expressing admiration for the flight which "was more than a sporting feat because it brings the United States and Germany, always bound in friendship, closer together. The achievement

AMONG SEVEN OFFICERS INDICTED WITH NINE BARTENDERS

ALL CHARGED WITH MAINTAINING A LIQUOR NUISANCE

St. Paul, June 8—(UP)—The federal circuit court of appeals today ruled that State Sen. A. L. Lennon of Minneapolis must serve one year in jail for liquor law violations.

Sen. Lennon, who was a member of the state legislature for several sessions, was among seven officers of the Eagles lodge in Minneapolis who were indicted with nine bartenders for maintaining a liquor nuisance.

Seven of those indicted were sentenced in United States district court to serve eight months each in jail.

The state senator appealed his sentence of one year and during the last session of the legislature a resolution to unseat him was not taken up.

The Eagles clubhouse in Minneapolis was raided by federal prohibition agents May 3, 1925.

The decision of the court of appeals stated that Sen. Lennon was one of three trustees of the lodge who had general supervision of the lodge property, including a large new building.

"The barroom was operated in a conspicuous manner in the building and the building fund of the lodge was deriving a very substantial revenue from that source," the decision said.

"The defendant at the lodge meeting on March 2, 1925, made a motion that during afternoon of Sundays and holidays the front door of the building be kept open. Witnesses agreed that he spoke in support of the written motion.

"The defendant was shown to have been present in the barroom on numerous occastons when liquor was being sold and consumed and made no remonstrance."

"A little less kicking, a man when he's down.

"And fewer on graves at the end of the strife."

TROUT FISHING, GOLD PANNING, FOR PRESIDENT

EQUIPMENT FOR GOLD PANNING IS LIGHT PROPOSITION

Rapid City, S. D., June 8.—(UP)—Various forms of diversion are offered in the Black Hills and should President Coolidge become bored with trout fishing he can have a diversion that only the west offers—gold panning.

This is a common treat in this country and it is not an uncommon pastime of the vacationists.

Recently C. F. Hatmaker, assistant general manager of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, and Fred Martineck, personnel officer of the same company, became devotees of the sport. They used a sluice box and out of two wheelbarrows of ore taken from the Halley mining claim, panned about three dollars worth of gold.

Both expressed the opinion it was one of the "greatest thrills."

Equipment for gold panning is light. All the president would need would be an old frying pan and a pick. Of course there is the more modern method of a sluice box and both are quite commonly used.

Many guides have offered their services to show the president the choicest places for gold panning.

The damage occurred when the plane landed in a cactus bed last night. Hawks is on his way from San Diego to Washington to greet Capt. Lindbergh Saturday.

CHAMBERLIN IN STATEMENT TO UNITED PRESS

SAYS AMERICAN ORGANIZATION HAS OFFERED THEM $100,000

MAY LEAVE BERLIN SHORTLY AND FLY TO VIENNA, ROME, ETC.

By FREDERICK KUH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1927, by United Press)

Berlin, June 8. — Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine may fly back to the United States, Chamberlin told the United Press today in an interview.

"An American organization has offered us $100,000 if we fly back to Roosevelt Field," the flier said. "The offer is so attractive that we are again considering the possibility of returning home by airplane."

Chamberlin discussed his future plans in Europe and told of offers he had received.

"I believe it is quite likely we shall leave Berlin in five or six days and fly to Vienna," he continued. "We have accepted an official invitation from the Austrian government to visit them by air at their capital.

"We are also planning to fly to Rome, Paris, London and are considering a flight to Moscow, possibly pausing at Poland on the way."

Chamberlin said he was not yet certain about Moscow and Poland.

He spoke of his mother and the talk he had with her over radiotelephone immediately after arriving at Berlin yesterday. "I have suggested to my mother that she sail immediately for England and meet me at London, which is her native city," he said.

"Among the hundreds of offers we have received one is to appear at a circus at home. There are many offers to go into the movies, vaudeville, on the stage, on the lecturing platform, and others."

Chamberlin said he was going to be received by President Von Hindenburg and that he would have to go wearing the knickerbockers and leather sporting jacket which he wore on the flight over.

"You see I took absolutely no luggage with me," he added— "no clothes, not even a clothes brush or a razor."

The flier said well meaning people had loaded charms and fetishes on him as tokens of good luck. "I am not superstitious," Chamberlin assured the correspondent. "I took them along merely to please the donors."

The United States lines today offered Chamberlin and Levine free passage to New York, but the pair said they still were considering the advisibility of flying back to New York, possibly from London. It was expected that the Soviet government would invite Chamberlin and Levine to fly to Moscow, assuring them a great reception.

FLIERS RECEIVED BY VON HINDENBURG

By ERIC KEYSER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, June 8. — Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine began filling the first of a series of engagements today in which the people of Germany sought to express their admiration for their record breaking airplane flight from New York.

The fliers were received at the presidential palace by President Von Hindenburg. About 10 years ago Chamberlin, then an inexperienced youth, was joining the United States army corps hoping to soar above the armies led by Von Hindenburg. All such was forgotten today. Chamberlin and Levine were welcomed as emissaries of peace whose flight would add to the friendship already existing between Germany and the United States.

The aged soldier-statesman received the fliers at 11:30 A. M. From Von Hindenburg's home in Wilmelmstrasse, Chamberlin and Levine were to go to further honor and acclaim.

Hindenburg congratulated Chamberlin and Levine, expressing admiration for the flight which "was more than a sporting feat because it brings the United States and Germany, always bound in friendship, closer together. The achievement

HEDDA HOYT TELLS ABOUT LINGERIE

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, June 8.—(UP)—Lingerie colors for the Summer season are pastel green, yellow, pink and coral. A bit more exotic than these shades is the combination of black with ecru lace. Black is so generally worn this year for outer wear that it seems fitting that it should be used for undergarments as well.

Black silk voile, ninon or georgette trimmed in ecru lace insets and lace borders is shown by some of the shops which cater only to the Elite. One lovely chemise of black silk voile has a large butterfly medallion of ecru lace at the front of the bodice and inch-width ecru lace bordering the pleated pantie section. A band of blue moire ribbon runs through lace insertion at the waist line tying in a bow-knot at the front. Also attractive are black georgette nightgowns made with semi-fitted bodices of normal waistline and gathered skirts bordered with wide ecru lace at the hem-line.

Flower-printed voiles and chiffons are also used for undergarments. They are especially smart when made of the exact material of the flower-printed frock. As Summer advances it is thought that women will match their pastel-hued frocks with undergarments. Bloomers, especially, should match the gown color.

Among the popular lingerie materials are ninon, georgette, indestructible voile, crepe de chene and pongee. Pongee is liked by school girls who favor athletic undergarments. Trunks in white, natural-colored pongee and pastel colors are worn with narrow bandeaux by most girls of slender figures.

Since the idea is to wear as little underwear as possible, we find combinations consisting of chemise, slip and panties in one. The bandeau brassiere is worn beneath this. For those who believe that each article of underapparel should be separate, we have found a means of ribbon eliminating numerous shoulder-straps. One single pair of ribbon straps are made to hold up one's entire garments by adding button-hole loops to each garment instead of shoulder-straps and using snapper attachments upon the pair of shoulder straps which are to do the work of holding all garments up. One slips the detachable straps through the loops of each garment and snaps the strap together just above the loops.

Miss Gipson (in Biology): How is the public protected from adulterated food, Georgia?

Georgia: Well, they have to put everything that's in the can on the outside.

Helen: I want to get a ride down the hill the worst way.

Fern: Ask Skoning for a ride then.

Bill: I think that we ought to get a speedometer for our Ford.

Wally: Shucks! We don't need a speedometer. When this car goes five miles an hour the fenders begin to rattle. When we go ten miles an hour in it, the windshield rattles. At fifteen miles an hour the hood starts rattling and at twenty miles an hour everything rattles. And if we go faster than that our bones rattle. So why waste money on a speedometer?

Get behind the wheel—and Chrysler "60" will give you 60 miles and more an hour as long as you care to have it with an ease and lack of effort that can only be described as typically Chrysler.

At high speed, step on the brake—the same simple, safe and sure hydraulic four-wheel brake as on the higher-priced Chrysler "70" or Imperial "80"—and the "60" will gently glide to rest or give you a split-second full-stop for the emergency.

Test Chrysler "60" any way you will. For ease of performance and riding, ease of control and handling, there's no getting away from the fact that the six-cylinder Chrysler "60"—with seven-bearing crankshaft, invar-strut pistons, manifold heat control, impulse neutralizer, oil filter, air cleaner, full pressure lubrication, road levelizers and many other features—is obviously unapproachable value in its price class.

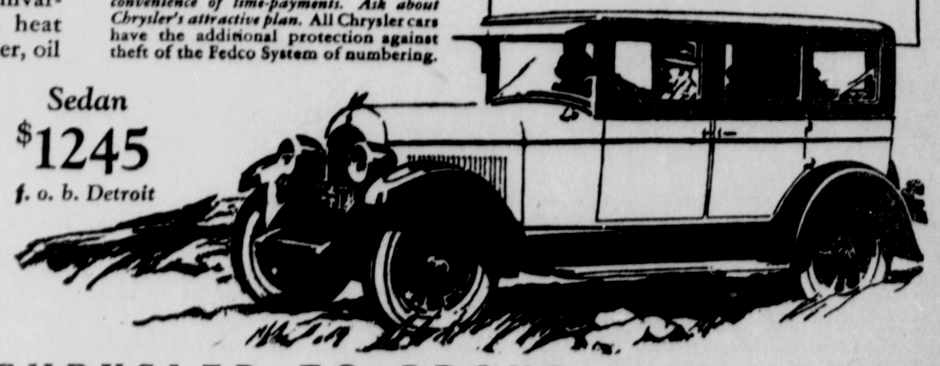

We invite you to drive the "60" and note its outstanding differences on the road. Experience its superiorities and never again will you be content with any car offering less in performance at such price.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS ABOUT LINGERIE

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, June 8.—(UP)—Lingerie colors for the Summer season are pastel green, yellow, pink and coral. A bit more exotic than these shades is the combination of black with ecru lace. Black is so generally worn this year for outer wear that it seems fitting that it should be used for undergarments as well.

Black silk voile, ninon or georgette trimmed in ecru lace insets and lace borders is shown by some of the shops which cater only to the Elite. One lovely chemise of black silk voile has a large butterfly medallion of ecru lace at the front of the bodice and inch-width ecru lace bordering the pleated pantie section. A band of blue moire ribbon runs through lace insertion at the waist line tying in a bow-knot at the front. Also attractive are black georgette nightgowns made with semi-fitted bodices of normal waistline and gathered skirts bordered with wide ecru lace at the hem-line.

Flower-printed voiles and chiffons are also used for undergarments. They are especially smart when made of the exact material of the flower-printed frock. As Summer advances it is thought that women will match their pastel-hued frocks with undergarments. Bloomers, especially, should match the gown color.

Among the popular lingerie materials are ninon, georgette, indestructible voile, crepe de chene and pongee. Pongee is liked by school girls who favor athletic undergarments. Trunks in white, natural-colored pongee and pastel colors are worn with narrow bandeaux by most girls of slender figures.

Since the idea is to wear as little underwear as possible, we find combinations consisting of chemise, slip and panties in one. The bandeau brassiere is worn beneath this. For those who believe that each article of underapparel should be separate, we have found a means of ribbon eliminating numerous shoulder-straps. One single pair of ribbon straps are made to hold up one's entire garments by adding button-hole loops to each garment instead of shoulder-straps and using snapper attachments upon the pair of shoulder straps which are to do the work of holding all garments up. One slips the detachable straps through the loops of each garment and snaps the strap together just above the loops.

Georgia: Well, they have to put everything that's in the can on the outside.

Helen: I want to get a ride down the hill the worst way.

Fern: Ask Skoning for a ride then.

Bill: I think that we ought to get a speedometer for our Ford.

Wally: Shucks! We don't need a speedometer. When this car goes five miles an hour the fenders begin to rattle. When we go ten miles an hour in it, the windshield rattles. At fifteen miles an hour the hood starts rattling and at twenty miles an hour everything rattles. And if we go faster than that our bones rattle. So why waste money on a speedometer?

Get behind the wheel—and Chrysler "60" will give you 60 miles and more an hour as long as you care to have it with an ease and lack of effort that can only be described as typically Chrysler.

At high speed, step on the brake—the same simple, safe and sure hydraulic four-wheel brake as on the higher-priced Chrysler "70" or Imperial "80"—and the "60" will gently glide to rest or give you a split-second full-stop for the emergency.

Test Chrysler "60" any way you will. For ease of performance and riding, ease of control and handling, there's no getting away from the fact that the six-cylinder Chrysler "60"—with seven-bearing crankshaft, invar-strut pistons, manifold heat control, impulse neutralizer, oil filter, air cleaner, full pressure lubrication, road levelizers and many other features—is obviously unapproachable value in its price class.

We invite you to drive the "60" and note its outstanding differences on the road. Experience its superiorities and never again will you be content with any car offering less in performance at such price.

THIS DAY OF MARVELS

"WHAT a time to be living in," says Editor Stillman Bingham of the Duluth Herald.

"With Lindbergh on his way home after one of the greatest triumphs that ever came to a human being, Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine set forth from New York Saturday morning and flew across the ocean to Germany, to be forced down a hundred and ten miles southeast of Berlin at 5 o'clock Monday morning (Berlin time) by failure of their gasoline supply.

Within a few days three Americans have flown across the Atlantic to the amazement of the world.

Unfortunately this first landing, made when the fuel ran out, was followed a little later by another forced landing seventy miles from Berlin in which the Columbia's propellor was broken, thus disappointing the eager throngs that waited in Berlin to give the American fliers a triumphal reception.

But it is another great feat, just the same.

Thought he flew alone and landed at his destination without mishap, Lindbergh's flight was a little shorter. He flew 3,610 miles, while Chamberlin and Levine flew 3,800 miles—a new record for sustained flight. They were in the air forty-two hours, Lindbergh thirty-three hours and twenty-nine minutes.

These are great days, when the world is witnessing so many marvels, charged with infinite meaning for the future of mankind.

Europe and America, once unknown to each other, then weeks apart by sailing vessel and next days apart by steam, are now only hours apart by airship. A few have flown across from one to the other, and presently hordes will fly.

The world grows smaller, and humanity grows closer together, because of the adventurous spirits of the air who have annihilated time and space.

That merging cannot fail to be followed by a closer and better understanding, for only distance and ignorance can keep enmities alive.

Though Lindbergh's feat inevitably takes a little of the keen edge off what Chamberlin and Levine have done, it is a great triumph, and they have written their names high on the scroll of American heroes of the air."

AMERICAN TELEPHONE SYSTEM PRAISED

COMMENTING on the latest annual report of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, a writer in the London Daily Mail points out that for every hundred people in the United States there are more than 14 telephones, while in the United Kingdom there are fewer than three.

This condition he ascribes to the fact that the British telephone system is operated by the Post Office Department, while in America the service is owned and managed by private enterprise.

"In this country" (Great Britain), the article says, "the bureaucratically managed telephone is a luxury of the well-to-do. In America, where there is a telephone to every six or seven people, practically every working man is on the wire, and so is practically every farmer. In England, large houses containing invaluable art collections burn down because there is no telephone to call the fire brigade. People living in the country have to send for the doctor on foot or on horseback exactly as they did in the Middle Ages.

"All over Europe the telephone is managed, or rather mismanaged, by officialdom. In America the telephone is a private institution, and the result is that the United States, with 110,000,000 inhabitants, has considerably more than twice as many telephones as all Europe with four times as many inhabitants.

"It is time we denationalized the various public services which can be carried on far more cheaply and far more efficiently by private enterprise, and a beginning should be made with the telephone."—Industrial News Bureau, the Manufacturer.

SIZING UP THE TWO FLIGHTS

WE have read the box score on Lindbergh and Chamberlin and must concede that in our opinion, Lindy put up the more finished performance. Our slim Minnesotan was not trying for a distance record nor for hours aloft, but plainly stated he was to fly from New York to Paris. He started at one official landing place and he landed in the official place designated by Paris. He flew on schedule just as he carried his mail in the past.

Chamberlin flew farther, but we can hardly term his landings very finished ones. True, he carried a passenger, but Lindbergh discarded even his tomcat in order to use all unnecessary poundage for carrying gasoline.

Both fliers had to feel their way through Europe. Chamberlin got lost twice, while Lindbergh, with the unerring sense of direction of a carrier pigeon, flew blind and without lights and made the official flying field.

DO WE CELEBRATE IN BRAINERD?

So far we have heard no mention of a Fourth of July celebration in Brainerd. Other communities started out early in the year mapping out a program, but nothing so far seems to have occurred in Brainerd.

Probably townspeople figure that the double holiday of Sunday and Monday may be better observed away from home, in other towns or at the lakes.

"CITY folk may beat the farm inhabitants in health but not in length of life, is the answer by rural authorities to city-life advocates, says the Northwestern Health Journal. To which we may append a wise note, that no matter how the controversy rages, every one will have to admit that the farmer does put in a long day.

MISS INGRID ECKSTROM, age 22, has been appointed special municipal judge of Cloquet. She will act until Judge Hanford F. Cox returns from the Rotary International convention at Belgium.

MEN of this age talk much of the broadcasting by radio. Heavens, before a radio ever was thought of, the rural line with 30 subscribers was engaged in a broadcast of unequalled power.

THE reason young Lindbergh does everything right, is because he was born and raised right in Minnesota.

He was one of the great warriors and statesmen of the Middle ages. He ruled over the Franks of France and Italy, also over a large part of Spain and Germany. He lived from 742 to 814. His successor had not the ability to perpetuate his government.

Giant Arctic Bear

The polar bear is a large bear (Ursus or Thalarctos maritimus) inhabiting the Arctic regions of both the Old and the New world. It attains a length of about 9 feet and often weighs more than 1,000 pounds. It frequents the shores and ice floes and swims well, living largely on seals. It differs from other bears in its creamy white color, long neck, narrow skull and small molar teeth.

Short Rays

The Gamma ray is really a super-X-ray, and shorter even than this is the Milliken or Cosmic ray. It is estimated that there are 635 trillion of them to the inch. Their origin has not been established nor a use found for them.

will be an example of peaceful progress to both nations."

The interview lasted 40 minutes during which the president asked scores of questions and gave each of his guests silver framed photographs of himself. Hindenburg wanted to know whether they met snow, did they sleep, was their hunger annoying and all manner of things about the flight.

United States Ambassador Jacob Gould Schurman interpreted between Hindenburg and the fliers.

Chancellor Wilhelm Marx will receive the pair at 4:30 and it was expected that all cabinet members in Berlin would attend the reception. In return for New York's bestowal of honorary citizenship on Dr. Hugo Eckener, pilot of the Los Angeles from Germany to Lakehurst, N. J., the municipality of Berlin will confer citizenship on Chamberlin and Levine.

Among the crowds in front of the United States embassy today were scores of young girls who threw flowers before the fliers.

A new wardrobe was ordered for Chamberlin today. A dinner jacket, fashionably tailored clothes and such articles as razor and tooth brush were included in the order.

BELLANCA FLIERS MAY WING WAY BACK TO AMERICA

will be an example of peaceful progress to both nations."

The interview lasted 40 minutes during which the president asked scores of questions and gave each of his guests silver framed photographs of himself. Hindenburg wanted to know whether they met snow, did they sleep, was their hunger annoying and all manner of things about the flight.

United States Ambassador Jacob Gould Schurman interpreted between Hindenburg and the fliers.

Chancellor Wilhelm Marx will receive the pair at 4:30 and it was expected that all cabinet members in Berlin would attend the reception. In return for New York's bestowal of honorary citizenship on Dr. Hugo Eckener, pilot of the Los Angeles from Germany to Lakehurst, N. J., the municipality of Berlin will confer citizenship on Chamberlin and Levine.

Among the crowds in front of the United States embassy today were scores of young girls who threw flowers before the fliers.

A new wardrobe was ordered for Chamberlin today. A dinner jacket, fashionably tailored clothes and such articles as razor and tooth brush were included in the order.

Street vendors were selling postcard photographs of Chamberlin, Levine and Giuseppe Bellanca, designer of the monoplane Columbia.

The cassawary lays from six to eight eggs of a light greenish color, and these are incubated solely by the male, says Nature Magazine. The eggs are about six inches long and are difficult to boil because of their great bulk, but when scrambled or prepared as an omelet, are said to be excellent. A single egg will furnish a meal for several persons.

SISLER, HERO, STEALS 3 BASES, HITS WELL

PEERLESS FIRST BASEMAN OF THE ST. LOUIS BROWNS

BROWNS, HOWEVER, LOST 11 TO 9 TO PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS

MILTON GASTON, TEMPERAMENTALLY HITS SPECTATOR "RIDING HIM"

By UNITED PRESS

Yesterday's hero — George Sisler, peerless first baseman of the St. Louis Browns, who stole three bases and hit safely in each of his four trips to the plate.

The Browns incidentally lost the game to the Philadelphia Athletics 11-9 although the Mackmen were outhit 18-14.

Milton Gaston, was relieved in the third inning and as he left the mound, ran into the stands and hit a spectator who had been "riding" him.

An eighth inning rally gave the Cubs the advantage that netted a 7-6 victory over Brooklyn. Previously Brooklyn had hammered the offerings of Charley Root, Bob Osborne and Roy Hard.

Four home runs featured the first game of the important series between the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox in which the Gothamites won 4-1. The victory gave New York a little better than a two game advantage over the second place Sox.

Babe Ruth hit his eighteenth home run and Buster Gehrig hit his fourteenth of the season. Pat Collins contributed with a home run for the Yankees also. Bud Clancy was the lone Soxman to hit for the circuit and it incidentally was the eighth consecutive hit for Clancy. Tommy Thomas, one of the aces of the Chicago pitching staff, lost his third game of the season through yesterday's defeat.

Four singles, a base on balls and a home run in the second inning gave Washington six runs and paved the way for a 10-8 victory over Cleveland. Cleveland threatened several times but the rallies were short lived.

Grimes, Henry and Songer tried unsuccessfully to stop the heavy hitting of the Pittsburgh Pirates but the Pennsylvanians defeated the Giants 9-6, Pittsburgh took a two run advantage in the first inning—through scoring four runs—but successive home runs by Hornsby and Terry evened the count. P. Waner a few minutes later got a home run and the Pirates never were headed again.

The Braves touched three St. Louis pitchers for fourteen hits and had little difficulty in defeating the world champions 12-5. Jimmy Ring started for the Cardinals but was taken out after six runs were scored in the fifth inning.

Jake May kept the seven Philadelphia hits well scattered and Cincinnati defeated the Phillies 5-1. Philadelphia had little difficulty in solving the offerings of Herb Pruett.

Despite a ninth inning rally which netted four runs Detroit was defeated by Boston 6-5. Up to the ninth inning Wiltse had held the Tigers to two hits. Gehringer opened the final rally with a home run but the rally fell short.

Columbus, O. — The hitting of Geygan and Kirkham helped Columbus to win the series opener from Milwaukee yesterday, 6 to 4.

Toledo, O.—The Toledo Mud Hens won the greatest slugging exhibition ever seen at Swayne field, 12 to 10, from the Kansas City Blues yesterday. Ryan, in addition to holding the Blue sluggers after he went in, won his game with a home run.

Indianapolis—Ezzell and McAuley completed a triple play in the Indianapolis-Minneapolis game yesterday. Indianapolis won 7 to 5.

Louisville — Joe Dawson allowed only four hits and blanked St. Paul, 10 to 0. It was the Louisville pitcher's second straight shutout.

BASEBALL'S BIG FOUR

Babe Ruth hit his eighteenth home run of the season off Al Thomas. He was at bat three times.

Hornsby made his ninth home run and a single in four times up.

Both Cobb and Speaker came through with a pair of singles in four attempts.

WHITE SOX LEAVE CELLAR

THINKS SENSE OF HUMOR WILL HELP HIS CLUB

Washington, June 8.—(UP)—While Manager Bucky Harris is weaning his Senators away from afternoon snoozes by administering generous doses of morning practice and threats, Pres. Clark C. Griffith thinks maybe a sense of humor will help his club.

He has set the example by inviting Charles Lindbergh to see a ball game here next Monday. Tris Speaker, Goose Goslin and Walter Johnson, he says, might be sufficient attraction to the flying mail man to cause him to stay over that day and postpone the mere matter of his flight to New York with its attendant acclaim by the metropolis' millions.

"If it's up to Lindy, I'll bet he'll come, because he's a typical American boy and they all love baseball," says Griff.

It was suggested to Griff that the typical American boy loves home runs and that he would have a better chance to see some from the bats of Babe Ruth and Buster Gehrig in New York early next week, but Griffith merely smiled humorously.

SOUTH SIDE BLANKS N. E., 4 TO 0; TIED FOR FIRST POSITION

MONDAY NIGHT'S GAME WAS ONE OF BEST OF SEASON IN CITY LEAGUE

SOUTH SIDERS BUNCH HITS IN SECOND AND FOURTH FRAMES, THREE TWO-BASE HITS

The South Side baseball team went into a tie for first place with the Northeast team Monday night by defeating them in one of the best played games of the season by a score of 4 to 0. It was Van Walk's first defeat of the season. Swanson, who opposed him, kept Northeast hits well scattered, striking out four and allowing only five hits. Van Walk allowed only five hits but they were bunched in the second and fourth innings to enable the S. S. to score two runs in each of those innings. Swanson was in fine form and was never in a hole, his teammates playing wonderful ball behind him.

The S. S. scored in the second inning when Norman doubled to left, Fitzharis drew a walk and both scored on Sheflo's hit to center field. They also scored in the fourth when Hanson drew a walk and was forced at second on Fitzharris' infield hit. Sheflo got his second hit, bringing in Fitzharris and Swanson, next man up, got a hit, scoring Sheflo.

A. Swanson made a nice stop of Norman's drive in the sixth. Hegstead also made a nice stop of H. Swanson's drive over the bag and threw him out at first with a nice throw.

NEW SENSATION OF SEASON IN THE LEAGUE

CENTERFIELD AND SECOND BASE GREATLY FORTIFIED

TEAM NOW FIGHTING YANKEES FOR FIRST PLACE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 8.—"There is no particular system on our ball club," Ray Schalk, manager of the Chicago White Sox, said when asked how he made the sensation of the current season out of a club that looked like a cellar contestant before the season opened.

"I said before the season started," he continued, "that there were two doubtful positions on the club, in centerfield and on second base and that success would depend upon our ability to correct those two weaknesses.

"I had faith in Irwin Ward and he has more than lived up to my expectations. It was a difficult task to find an experienced player to take the place of Eddie Collins but I figured Ward would deliver. I did not think there was any luck involved in getting Ward but we did have a good break in getting Metzler to take the place of Johnny Mostil in centerfield. He was highly recommended to us when the Athletics were forced to release him but we didn't expect him to deliver as well as he has done."

Metzler, Ward, McCurdy and the three star pitchers, Lyons, Thomas and Blankenship apparently have made the White Six a club that is now fighting the New York Yankees for first place and one that will likely be a contender all the way if not an actual winner.

The club has some other good pitchers, headed by the veteran Red Faber, who will not be worked much until the real hot weather comes but Schalk thinks that three such pitchers as Lyons, Thomas and Blankenship are enough to keep any club in the race. They are young, strong boys and can stand a lot of work.

McCurdy is one of the most improved ball players of the year and his form has been made the subject for a lot of talk about the luck of his club.

The White Sox were disappointed in the failure of the veteran Roger Peckinpaugh to come through after he was obtained from Washington. Schalk saw something had to be done about it. He didn't hesitate to bench the veteran and put Hunnefield in his place and the infield problem was solved. He also made a gamble in taking Sheeley off first base and using young Clancy and it worked.

The club is not claiming the pennants but as Schalk said—"if you can keep on winning ball games you can make it awful hard for the other fellows."

WHITE SOX LEAVE CELLAR

THINKS SENSE OF HUMOR WILL HELP HIS CLUB

Washington, June 8.—(UP)—While Manager Bucky Harris is weaning his Senators away from afternoon snoozes by administering generous doses of morning practice and threats, Pres. Clark C. Griffith thinks maybe a sense of humor will help his club.

He has set the example by inviting Charles Lindbergh to see a ball game here next Monday. Tris Speaker, Goose Goslin and Walter Johnson, he says, might be sufficient attraction to the flying mail man to cause him to stay over that day and postpone the mere matter of his flight to New York with its attendant acclaim by the metropolis' millions.

"If it's up to Lindy, I'll bet he'll come, because he's a typical American boy and they all love baseball," says Griff.

It was suggested to Griff that the typical American boy loves home runs and that he would have a better chance to see some from the bats of Babe Ruth and Buster Gehrig in New York early next week, but Griffith merely smiled humorously.

SOUTH SIDE BLANKS N. E., 4 TO 0; TIED FOR FIRST POSITION

SOUTH SIDERS BUNCH HITS IN SECOND AND FOURTH FRAMES, THREE TWO-BASE HITS

The South Side baseball team went into a tie for first place with the Northeast team Monday night by defeating them in one of the best played games of the season by a score of 4 to 0. It was Van Walk's first defeat of the season. Swanson, who opposed him, kept Northeast hits well scattered, striking out four and allowing only five hits. Van Walk allowed only five hits but they were bunched in the second and fourth innings to enable the S. S. to score two runs in each of those innings. Swanson was in fine form and was never in a hole, his teammates playing wonderful ball behind him.

The S. S. scored in the second inning when Norman doubled to left, Fitzharis drew a walk and both scored on Sheflo's hit to center field. They also scored in the fourth when Hanson drew a walk and was forced at second on Fitzharris' infield hit. Sheflo got his second hit, bringing in Fitzharris and Swanson, next man up, got a hit, scoring Sheflo.

A. Swanson made a nice stop of Norman's drive in the sixth. Hegstead also made a nice stop of H. Swanson's drive over the bag and threw him out at first with a nice throw.

NEW SENSATION OF SEASON IN THE LEAGUE

CENTERFIELD AND SECOND BASE GREATLY FORTIFIED

TEAM NOW FIGHTING YANKEES FOR FIRST PLACE

By HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 8.—"There is no particular system on our ball club," Ray Schalk, manager of the Chicago White Sox, said when asked how he made the sensation of the current season out of a club that looked like a cellar contestant before the season opened.

"I said before the season started," he continued, "that there were two doubtful positions on the club, in centerfield and on second base and that success would depend upon our ability to correct those two weaknesses.

"I had faith in Irwin Ward and he has more than lived up to my expectations. It was a difficult task to find an experienced player to take the place of Eddie Collins but I figured Ward would deliver. I did not think there was any luck involved in getting Ward but we did have a good break in getting Metzler to take the place of Johnny Mostil in centerfield. He was highly recommended to us when the Athletics were forced to release him but we didn't expect him to deliver as well as he has done."

Metzler, Ward, McCurdy and the three star pitchers, Lyons, Thomas and Blankenship apparently have made the White Six a club that is now fighting the New York Yankees for first place and one that will likely be a contender all the way if not an actual winner.

The club has some other good pitchers, headed by the veteran Red Faber, who will not be worked much until the real hot weather comes but Schalk thinks that three such pitchers as Lyons, Thomas and Blankenship are enough to keep any club in the race. They are young, strong boys and can stand a lot of work.

McCurdy is one of the most improved ball players of the year and his form has been made the subject for a lot of talk about the luck of his club.

The White Sox were disappointed in the failure of the veteran Roger Peckinpaugh to come through after he was obtained from Washington. Schalk saw something had to be done about it. He didn't hesitate to bench the veteran and put Hunnefield in his place and the infield problem was solved. He also made a gamble in taking Sheeley off first base and using young Clancy and it worked.

The club is not claiming the pennants but as Schalk said—"if you can keep on winning ball games you can make it awful hard for the other fellows."

LIFE STORY OF LINDBERGH WHO FLEW TO PARIS

HAD REAL FRIGHT OF HIS LIFE WHEN WITH "FLYING CIRCUS"

HAD TWO PASSENGERS UP FACING STORM, LANDED SAFELY IN DARKNESS

(The life story of Charles A. Lindbergh, who flew to fame in 34 hours)

Chapter Eight

Captain Charles A. Lindbergh got what his friends among aviators believe to be the only real fright of his life in 1924 when at Fowler, Colorado, with a "Flying Circus." It was largely fear for the safety of two men who were riding with him as passengers.

"We had come to Fowler to give an exhibition," said Captain J. Wray Vaughn, who was managing the "Flying Circus."

"Lindbergh was our great stunt pilot at the time and he was giving the people plenty of thrills.

"Two men came to the field and wanted to be taken up. Lindbergh accordingly hopped off with them. It was late afternoon.

"The ship had hardly left the ground when a nasty wind storm blew up. The wind howled and Lindbergh, with his two passengers, circled over the field, but he could tell by the feel of the plane that it would be dangerous to land in such a blow. So he went up higher and higher to keep out of the danger zone, and before the storm abated it was pitch dark.

"The field where we were flying was small. It was not a regular flying field, but just a big open space which had been turned over to us for our exhibition work. In it were two haystacks and several trees. In daylight a pilot as skilled as Lindbergh could land and take off with perfect safety but at night it was a different matter. Flares were not easily available in those days and lighting such a field was an almost unknown practice in that region.

"So, while the field might be all right in daylight, it was about the last place in the world to pick for landing at night.

"The wind was still pretty heavy and the night was pitch black. I didn't know what was going to be done about it. I knew he couldn't stay aloft forever. He had to come down some time.

"So I moved up three automobiles and directed their headlights so they would outline, although perhaps weakly, the boundaries of the field and show up the haystacks and the trees.

"Lindbergh was watching and pretty soon he began coming down. He circled around, looking the situation all over, and then dropped low and made a perfect landing.

"The two passengers got out and were enthusiastic about the splendid ride Lindbergh had given them. They thought the long trip was a part of our generosity and they probably don't know to this day that only unusual skill and cool-headedness on the part of Lindbergh saved their lives.

"But Lindbergh got out of the plane, came over to me and said:

"'You can put that down in the book—in all my flying experience that's the first time I ever was scared'."

Lindbergh had joined Vaughn after going to St. Louis from his Little Falls home where he had rested after his first year or so of following the country fairs in the Rocky Mountain states. Vaughn had taken him back to the west.

"I wired Lambert field in St. Louis one day that I needed a pilot for a summer stunt tour through the west," Vaughn said telling how he and Lindbergh met. "I told them I wanted a pilot with plenty of nerve and one who knew his business. They replied that they were sending Lindbergh. I'd never heard of him before.

"So I went down to the station in Denver, Colo., to meet him. I expected to see a regulation trick airman all dressed up in doggy aviator's uniform.

"I stood on the station platform scanning the crowd trying to pick out someone who looked like an aviator. I noticed a tall, gangling kid in a misfit, blue suit about three sizes too small. He wore an old cloth cap and carried a card-board suitcase and a duffle bag.

"The crowd thinned out, but I couldn't find my pilot anywhere. The kid kept hanging around like he was looking for someone and after awhile he and I were about the only ones left. Then he came up to me and said hesitatingly:

"'Are you Captain Vaughn?'

"I said that I was.

"'I'm Lindbergh,'" the kid said.

"I looked him over again and said to myself 'those fellows down in St. Louis are slipping me something. If this kid is a pilot I'm a horse.'

"But the first time I saw him in the air I knew I was wrong. There never was another like him."

Lindbergh remained with the Flying Circus until late in 1924 when he decided to take the army training course in aviation and become a reserve flier.

So, one day he got into his airplane and flew to Brooks Field, Texas, to enroll as a flying cadet.

"I remember when he came," said Sergeant D. Wood, of Brooks Field. "He had an old, dilapidated Standard bi-plane with most of the fabric gone from the lower half of one wing. But that didn't seem to bother Lindbergh any. He handled it just as well as if the wing were sound.

"He was a quiet, unassuming chap who seldom went to town and was always studying."

He completed his primary training at Brooks Field in September, 1924, and went to Kelly Field, San Antonio, to attend the Advanced Flying School. It was while flying there that he made the first of his famous parachute jumps when his plane was disabled in that most rare and spectacular of accidents — an aerial collision.

"I felt a slight jolt followed by a crash," Lindbergh wrote in his official report of the accident. "My head was thrown forward against the cowling and my plane seemed to turn around and hang nearly motionless for an instant. I closed the throttle and saw an SE-5 plane with Lieut. McAllister in the cockpit, a few feet on my left. He was apparently unhurt and getting ready to jump.

"Our ships were locked together. My right wing was folded back. The ships started to mill around and the wires began whistling. The right wing commenced vibrating and striking my head at the bottom of each vibration.

"I climbed out and jumped backwards as far as I could.

"I was afraid the planes might fall on me so I did not pull the cord of my parachute until I had dropped several hundred feet.

"I saw Lieut. McAllister floating above me and the wrecked ships about 100 yards to one side. I watched them until, still locked together, they crashed in the mesquite and burst into flames.

"Although the impact of landing was too great for me to remain standing, I landed in a ditch at the edge of the mesquite and was not injured in any way.

"During my descent I lost my goggles, a vest pocket camera which fitted tightly in my hip pocket and the rip cord of the parachute."

"'You can put that down in the book—in all my flying experience that's the first time I ever was scared'."

Lindbergh had joined Vaughn after going to St. Louis from his Little Falls home where he had rested after his first year or so of following the country fairs in the Rocky Mountain states. Vaughn had taken him back to the west.

"I wired Lambert field in St. Louis one day that I needed a pilot for a summer stunt tour through the west," Vaughn said telling how he and Lindbergh met. "I told them I wanted a pilot with plenty of nerve and one who knew his business. They replied that they were sending Lindbergh. I'd never heard of him before.

"So I went down to the station in Denver, Colo., to meet him. I expected to see a regulation trick airman all dressed up in doggy aviator's uniform.

"I stood on the station platform scanning the crowd trying to pick out someone who looked like an aviator. I noticed a tall, gangling kid in a misfit, blue suit about three sizes too small. He wore an old cloth cap and carried a card-board suitcase and a duffle bag.

"The crowd thinned out, but I couldn't find my pilot anywhere. The kid kept hanging around like he was looking for someone and after awhile he and I were about the only ones left. Then he came up to me and said hesitatingly:

"'Are you Captain Vaughn?'

"I said that I was.

"'I'm Lindbergh,' the kid said.

"I looked him over again and said to myself 'those fellows down in St. Louis are slipping me something. If this kid is a pilot I'm a horse.'

"But the first time I saw him in the air I knew I was wrong. There never was another like him."

Lindbergh remained with the Flying Circus until late in 1924 when he decided to take the army training course in aviation and become a reserve flier.

So, one day he got into his airplane and flew to Brooks Field, Texas, to enroll as a flying cadet.

"I remember when he came," said Sergeant D. Wood, of Brooks Field. "He had an old, dilapidated Standard bi-plane with most of the fabric gone from the lower half of one wing. But that didn't seem to bother Lnidbergh any. He handled it just as well as if the wing were sound.

"He was a quiet, unassuming chap who seldom went to town and was always studying."

He completed his primary training at Brooks Field in September, 1924, and went to Kelly Field, San Antonio, to attend the Advanced Flying School. It was while flying there that he made the first of his famous parachute jumps when his plane was disabled in that most rare and spectacular of accidents — an aerial collision.

"I felt a slight jolt followed by a crash," Lindbergh wrote in his official report of the accident. "My head was thrown forward against the cowling and my plane seemed to turn around and hang nearly motionless for an instant. I closed the throttle and saw an SE-5 plane with Lieut. McAllister in the cockpit, a few feet on my left. He was apparently unhurt and getting ready to jump.

"Our ships were locked together. My right wing was folded back. The ships started to mill around and the wires began whistling. The right wing commenced vibrating and striking my head at the bottom of each vibration.

"I climbed out and jumped backwards as far as I could.

"I was afraid the planes might fall on me so I did not pull the cord of my parachute until I had dropped several hundred feet.

"I saw Lieut. McAllister floating above me and the wrecked ships about 100 yards to one side. I watched them until, still locked together, they crashed in the mesquite and burst into flames.

"Although the impact of landing was too great for me to remain standing, I landed in a ditch at the edge of the mesquite and was not injured in any way.

"During my descent I lost my goggles, a vest pocket camera which fitted tightly in my hip pocket and the rip cord of the parachute."

RAIL ENGINEERS DO NOT OPPOSE CONSOLIDATIONS

Cleveland, O., June 8.—(UP)—Consolidation of American railroads, patterned after the program Sir Henry Thornton has effected with the Canadian lines, will meet with no opposition from officials from the Brotherhook of Locomotive Engineers.

This was the opinion expressed today by H. B. Wills, Washington, assistant grand chief engineer, who is attending the fifth triennial brotherhook convention here.

"Consolidation will mean fewer engines and consequently fewer engineers," Wills said. "But consolidation is progress and we will not oppose it."

Matter of Strength

Most men do not lack strength, rather the will to use it, and knowledge how best to apply it. Physical strength needs the will to decide and the brain to direct, to insure use that will prove profitable.—Grit.

A recitation, "In the Usual Way" was rendered by Miss Sigrid Stendal and a short talk given by Rev. O. L. Solstad who in behalf of the friends and neighbors presented the couple with some beautiful silverware. Mr. and Mrs. Ole Sunde acted at witnesses to the pleasing ceremony.

A delicious lunch was served by the ladies, one feature being a large wedding cake. Afterwards a social hour was enjoyed, old and young entering into the happy spirit of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Saxrud were married at Hale, Wis., June 7, 1902. Shortly after their marriage they moved to Minnesota residing for a number of years at Crookston. Girl Is Recuperating From Narrow Escape

Duluth, Minn., June 8.—(UP)—Margie Londivan is recuperating today from the effects of a narrow escape from the same fate of her companion, Henry Paulson, who was drowned in Superior Bay last night when their canoe overturned.

Miss Londivan clung to the canoe and was rescued by Harry Peabody, a ferry operator.

Cloth From Cellulose

Cloth made of cellulose yarn was used to make the so-called paper suits worn in Germany during the World war. The cellulose transformed into paper and cut into strips and these strips are spun. Some waste from other fibrous materials such as cotton and flax is introduced to make a thread in the manufacture of the yarn.

PLAYING THE GAME

By MARY K. BROWNE
Written for the United Press
Copyright, 1927, by United Press

Speed! Youth! Intelligence! These are the main ingredients of the successful athlete today.

The swing of the tennis racket or the golf club and the fighter's punch, all have been speeded up. The exuberance and daring of youth cannot be stopped by experience alone.

The greatest hero of the age, Capt. Charles Lindbergh, demonstrated what these three qualities could do. His successful flight from New York to Paris was intelligently carried out. He preferred to travel light to gain speed. His youthful confidence in his plane and his exuberance kept him from turning back in the face of peril of sleet and rain. His intelligent use of navigation instruments kept him straight as an arrow to his course.

He may be called "Lucky" and "Flying fool," affectionately of course, but in fact he is a glorified example of the trend of timing in all athletic and modern achievements.

The government may claim him as its ambassador, aviation as their greatest flyer, mothers as a model son. The sport would acclaim him too, as a fine a sportsman as ever lived. No greater tribute could be paid him.

It is difficult to come back to earth and write of puny insignificant things which suffer so by comparison.

Speed. The tennis has been speeded up to such an extent that a game which was once thought "sissy" now calls for a great amount of stamina.

The timing of the tennis swing is responsible for the increased speed, rather than strength. Twenty years ago the tennis ball bounded from the court and was allowed almost to reach the ground again before it was struck. The stroke was called a lofered drive. It gave the player plenty of time to get into position, but it also gave the opponent time to recover.

Then the game was speeded up by California players who learned to take the ball at the top of its first bound and save that much time in returning it quickly to the opponent's court. This new timing of the tennis ball was largely responsible for the unprecedented success of California players during the reign of May Sutton Bundy, Maurice McLoughlin, William Johnston, Lindley Murray, Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman and myself, all holders of the national title.

Then came Norman Brookes of Australia, Norris Williams and William Tilden, Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills. They did not wait for the ball to reach the top of the bound, but took it just before it reached that point, in fact, "on the rise." That is the trend of timing in modern lawn tennis and has been responsible for speeding up the game.

Henri Cochet of France, who I believe will be greater than Tilden or La Coste in a few years, takes the ball sooner off the ground than any of the other men players. It is very delicate workmanship, requiring quickness of eye, fleetness of foot and deftness of stroke, this meeting the ball while it retains all its speed and spin. The method may prove too risky to survive, but when it works it is delightful. Henri Cochet is considered a poor starter. It is due I believe to the fact that it takes him a few games to get his delicate timing and flighty temperament under control.

Senorita Lila D'Alverez, the Spanish Suzanne, is even more daring than Cochet. She takes the ball so soon off the ground that the result is sometimes a "pick up" considered in the past a very dangerous and foolhardy stroke, but Senorita D'Alverez seems to control it very well indeed.

Youth. The natural activity and exuberance of youth is what counts in tennis, prize fighting, or even in the slower game of golf.

I find that youngsters do not know what fear is. They have splendid nerve. After they have acquired a real understanding of the game and accuracy of stroke, it takes more than experience to stop them.

Intelligence! There is so much research and scientific data, besides expert coaching to be had in all lines of sport that very little is left to instinct.

Of course natural ability counts, for you will only be as good as your utmost adaptability to the game will allow you, but natural ability is as prevalent as green grass. We are an athletic nation.

Wild Animals Fear Snakes

Dangerous snakes in Great Britain are so rare that cattle show no fear of them, but any foreign deer will be in a state of panic if a snake is placed near it. The elephant ignores the largest snakes for he knows that his thick hide is a safe armor against their attacks. On the other hand, large mammals such as the lion and tiger will quickly run off from the presence of a snake.

Firing Explosives

Benjamin Franklin is credited with having first used electricity to fire charges of explosives in 1751. Today electric firing is commonly employed in mines and quarries to make blasting safe.

Consider All Sides

It is well to consider, before walking along the railroad track, that while the engineer's intentions may be good the locomotive's aim is also good.—Louisville Times.

Measuring Gold Dust

The bureau of mines says that in the early days in California, when they paid in gold dust, they had a small measure about 3 inches long and 1 inch wide and about ¼ of an inch high, which they called a scoop. Gold dust was paid by the scoop and it would vary with the individual gold camp, as the gold dust in some camps was finer than in others.

Named From Bird

Halcyon days mean a calm peaceful time. Halcyon is the ancient Greek name for the kingfisher. This bird was reputed to build its nest upon the sea, and lay and hatch its eggs during 14 days, about December 21. The sea was said to be calm during this period. They were halcyon days.

Tunney Gives Marines Mascot

The Photograph Shows Champion Gene Tunney and Jiggs II.

Meet Jiggs II, the new marine mascot, and Gene Tunney's gift to his old outfit.

The champ's gift is a rough, tough little bull pup well qualified to fill the collar of the late lamented Sergeant Major Jiggs, who for many years brought good fortune to marine football and baseball teams.

When Sergeant Major Jiggs lingered too long in the chow line and paid the penalty of high living, marines began to search the country for a worth-while successor. This was not easy, for Jiggs was a remarkable dog. He was a perfect specimen of English bull with an undershot jaw that stood out like the piazza on a bungalow. His legs were as bowed as a barrel hoop, and his chest was the size of the G. I. bucket.

It was Gene Tunney, champion of the world, who finally located the right dog. He bought the pup and gave it to the marine corps, in which he served during the war. Jiggs II weighs 47 pounds and is 17 months old. He has all the points of Sergeant Major Jiggs, including the jutting jaw and billiard table legs.

PLAYING THE GAME

By MARY K. BROWNE
Written for the United Press
Copyright, 1927, by United Press

Speed! Youth! Intelligence! These are the main ingredients of the successful athlete today.

The swing of the tennis racket or the golf club and the fighter's punch, all have been speeded up. The exuberance and daring of youth cannot be stopped by experience alone.

The greatest hero of the age, Capt. Charles Lindbergh, demonstrated what these three qualities could do. His successful flight from New York to Paris was inteiligently carried out. He preferred to travel light to gain speed. His youthful confidence in his plane and his exuberance kept him from turning back in the face of peril of sleet and rain. His intelligent use of navigation instruments kept him straight as an arrow to his course.

He may be called "Lucky" and "Flying fool," affectionately of course, but in fact he is a glorified example of the trend of timing in all athletic and modern achievements.

The government may claim him as its ambassador, aviation as their greatest flyer, mothers as a model son. The sport would acclaim him too, as a fine a sportsman as ever lived. No greater tribute could be paid him.

It is difficult to come back to earth and write of puny insignificant things which suffer so by comparison.

Speed. The tennis has been speeded up to such an extent that a game which was once thought "sissy" now calls for a great amount of stamina.

The timing of the tennis swing is responsible for the increased speed, rather than strength. Twenty years ago the tennis ball bounded from the court and was allowed almost to reach the ground again before it was struck. The stroke was called a lofered drive. It gave the player plenty of time to get into position, but it also gave the opponent time to recover.

Then the game was speeded up by California players who learned to take the ball at the top of its first bound and save that much time in returning it quickly to the opponent's court. This new timing of the tennis ball was largely responsible for the unprecedented success of California players during the reign of May Sutton Bundy, Maurice McLoughlin, William Johnston, Lindley Murray, Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman and myself, all holders of the national title.

Then came Norman Brookes of Australia, Norris Williams and William Tilden, Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills. They did not wait for the ball to reach the top of the bound, but took it just before it reached that point, in fact, "on the rise." That is the trend of timing in modern lawn tennis and has been responsible for speeding up the game.

Henri Cochet of France, who I believe will be greater than Tilden or La Coste in a few years, takes the ball sooner off the ground than any of the other men players. It is very delicate workmanship, requiring quickness of eye, fleetness of foot and deftness of stroke, this meeting the ball while it retains all its speed and spin. The method may prove too risky to survive, but when it works it is delightful. Henri Cochet is considered a poor starter. It is due I believe to the fact that it takes him a few games to get his delicate timing and flighty temperament under control.

Senorita Lila D'Alverez, the Spanish Suzanne, is even more daring than Cochet. She takes the ball so soon off the ground that the result is sometimes a "pick up" considered in the past a very dangerous and foolhardy stroke, but Senorita D'Alverez seems to control it very well indeed.

Youth. The natural activity and exuberance of youth is what counts in tennis, prize fighting, or even in the slower game of golf.

I find that youngsters do not know what fear is. They have splendid nerve. After they have acquired a real understanding of the game and accuracy of stroke, it takes more than experience to stop them.

Intelligence! There is so much research and scientific data, besides expert coaching to be had in all lines of sport that very little is left to instinct.

Of course natural ability counts, for you will only be as good as your utmost adaptability to the game will allow you, but natural ability is as prevalent as green grass. We are an athletic nation.

Wild Animals Fear Snakes

Dangerous snakes in Great Britain are so rare that cattle show no fear of them, but any foreign deer will be in a state of panic if a snake is placed near it. The elephant ignores the largest snakes for he knows that his thick hide is a safe armor against their attacks. On the other hand, large mammals such as the lion and tiger will quickly run off from the presence of a snake.

Firing Explosives

Benjamin Franklin is credited with having first used electricity to fire charges of explosives in 1751. Today electric firing is commonly employed in mines and quarries to make blasting safe.

Consider All Sides

It is well to consider, before walking along the railroad track, that while the engineer's intentions may be good the locomotive's aim is also good.—Louisville Times.

Measuring Gold Dust

The bureau of mines says that in the early days in California, when they paid in gold dust, they had a small measure about 3 inches long and 1 inch wide and about ¼ of an inch high, which they called a scoop. Gold dust was paid by the scoop and it would vary with the individual gold camp, as the gold dust in some camps was finer than in others.

Tunney Gives Marines Mascot

The Photograph Shows Champion Gene Tunney and Jiggs II.

Meet Jiggs II, the new marine mascot, and Gene Tunney's gift to his old outfit.

The champ's gift is a rough, tough little bull pup well qualified to fill the collar of the late lamented Sergeant Major Jiggs, who for many years brought good fortune to marine football and baseball teams.

When Sergeant Major Jiggs lingered too long in the chow line and paid the penalty of high living, marines began to search the country for a worth-while successor. This was not easy, for Jiggs was a remarkable dog. He was a perfect specimen of English bull with an undershot jaw that stood out like the piazza on a bungalow. His legs were as bowed as a barrel hoop, and his chest was the size of the G. I. bucket.

It was Gene Tunney, champion of the world, who finally located the right dog. He bought the pup and gave it to the marine corps, in which he served during the war. Jiggs II weighs 47 pounds and is 17 months old. He has all the points of Sergeant Major Jiggs, including the jutting jaw and billiard table legs.
